Summer Scholarships for Asian Language Study

Summer 2019

Information for Applicants

Eligibility requirements: Summer scholarships for Asian Language Study of up to $2,500 may be used either in the United States or abroad, but will be awarded only for study in a recognized summer language program. The proposed summer course must provide the equivalent of a full academic year of language study in an intensive Asian language course. Such summer courses generally meet the equivalent of 20 hours a week for an eight-week term.

Both graduate and undergraduate students currently pursuing degrees at The University of Iowa may apply, but preference will be given in either case to students who demonstrate (1) an aptitude and achievement in previous work in their chosen language, and (2) a serious commitment to incorporating this language in their future study and career goals. Consideration will be limited to students who intend to return to The University of Iowa for further study either upon completion of their summer work or after a limited time in a formal study-abroad program following the summer award period. Final award of scholarship funds will be contingent upon acceptance into an intensive summer language program approved by the scholarship selection committee.

Application and selection procedures: Applicants must submit the following to the selection committee by March 1, 2019 to be considered for scholarship support:

- A completed application form, including a statement of purpose.
- A current and complete academic transcript (copy from MyUI version acceptable).
- Two confidential letters of recommendation, one of which must be an evaluation by an instructor of the chosen language. Letters should be sent directly to the selection committee.
- Evidence of your application to, and ultimately acceptance by, one or more summer language programs (see below). It is understood that many programs will not have made final acceptance decisions by this application due date, and notification of such may be turned in as soon as received by the applicant after March 1, 2019.
- Estimated Budget. This would include tuition, room and board, transportation, and any other expenses applicable to the summer language study. This should be as detailed an itemization as is possible.

Awardees will be notified of their selection in April.

APPLICATION DEADLINE – FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 2019
PLEASE NOTE: Scholarship recipients will be required to submit a brief (2-3 pages) typed account of their summer activities and experiences which will be due by Friday, August 30th, 2019. Failure to do so may result in a retraction of part or all of the award amount which the recipient would then be required to repay.

Selecting a summer program: Given the number and variety of summer language programs in the United States, Japan, China, Hong Kong, Taiwan, India, Pakistan, and elsewhere, it is virtually impossible for us to prepare a full, accurate, and up-to-date list of places offering courses that meet the requirements for awarding these scholarships. We advise you, therefore, to begin immediately doing some research on your own. It is imperative that you consult with a member of the Asian and Slavic Languages and Literature faculty as you go through the selection and application process. She or he can guide you to institutions that have offered appropriate language courses at various levels in past years and provide advice on such matters as transfer of summer credits. It will still be up to you, however, to do at least some of the work involved in finding out what is available, and where, in the summer of 2019.

If you are planning to enroll in a summer course abroad, you should begin the application process to the institution concerned as soon as possible, since the necessary correspondence, processing of applications, and visa procedures sometimes move very slowly. In addition, many good summer programs in the United States do not announce their course offerings, which often vary from year to year, until sometime in the spring.

It may, therefore, not be possible for you to be accepted into your chosen program by the time your scholarship application is due. Such circumstances will not affect your eligibility for consideration, as long as you submit with your application to the selection committee some evidence that your application to the language program is under way, such as copies of correspondence with the institution or your application.

Additional Summer Language Scholarship application forms are available in the departmental office at 111 Phillips Hall.

Applications must be completed and turned in by Friday, March 1, 2019.
